

HOW MUCH DOES FAMILY MEDIATION COST?

We charge a fixed fee meaning you do not pay anything additional for preparing for sessions, providing you with a Mediation Record between sessions or any administration in connection with arranging sessions. We do, however charge for preparing the formal outcome paperwork at the end of the mediation process (see below). The fees quoted below are what you will pay and include and VAT.

Legal Aid is available for family mediation if you are financially eligible. If you qualify for Legal Aid then your mediation fees for the MIAM, any joint sessions and preparation of any paperwork will be covered by the Legal Aid Agency. Even if only one of you is eligible for Legal Aid, the fees for the MIAM and the first joint session for the other person will be paid for by the Legal Aid Agency. If you wish to be considered for Legal Aid please let us know before your MIAM.
